Nowadays more and more people change their careers and places of residence during their lives. But some people still believe that it's too risky and stupid idea. Let's find out some pros and cons of it.

In my opinion, such changes in people's lives are really stressful. You never know what will happen in future and many of those, who leave in search for a better life fail to find it. The good example for it is my elder sister. She moved to London 16 years ago and had many problems with her job, flat and many other things during the next thirteen years. All that time she was supported by our parents, who had a job and at least any sellary. Once a month they used to send her some money for the rent of her room and on food.

I also think that moving to another country harms different nationalities and cultures because of globalisation.

Anyway, the change of career and place of residence also has some good sides. People share their skills, opinions and other personal factors communicating with each other. Changing jobs and places of life people have to talk to each other more. Some knowledges that they give to each other may somehow help them in future.

To sum up there are many different opinions about such changes in people's lives. Still I think that it is always better to have stability in life and to live and to work in the place you're already used to.

Essay

Nowadays lots of people frequently change their careers and places of residence several times during their lives.

In my opinion, this is a positive development. Lots of have made wrong decisions about their future career. The reasons may be different: they've been made by parents to choose their profession or they just haven't had enough money to enter to university. But nowadays these people are able to get the second or the third education and make great careers.

As for changing places of residence, the reason may be different too: illnesses that don't let people live in cold countries, also getting new work place etc. Some people realise, that they want to live in the other city or country. It's great, because it gives much opportunities for your life and your future kids' life.

But I also think, there are some disadvantages.
The first problem is leaving parents and friends.
The second one is your language skills, that can make your conversation with other people impossible.
It's also sometimes too complicated.

I would love to change my place of residence, because I want to get foreign education, learn foreign languages, meet other cultures, etc. ~~and~~ ~~so~~ ~~that~~ and to find the place I will love to live at.

I think that a frequent change of the careers and places of residence several times during the people's lives is a negative development, because people can have a lot of problems with it. Like, a problem of shipping the clothes, looking for the new house or flat and problems with new work.

As I said the 1st reason why I am against of often change of careers and places to live is the problem of looking for the house or flat. People should see a lot of variants of different flats. It is really hard because it take a lot of time. Also a variant which you like can be with a big price.

The 2nd reason is a problem of shipping the clothes. from one place to another place. To do it people need a lot of time and money.

The 3rd reason is find new job.

Nowadays it is really difficult to find a good job. Usually people want to have job connected with their interests and hobbies, but companies need people to do cleaning or to wash the dishes. I guess that people do not want to have such kind of job.

In my life my parents and me changed the place we live only one time but it was very hard. I don't want to repeat this.

I think this is a positive development. As for me I also would like to change my career and places of the residence several times during my life. I would like to travel around the world and always have a different jobs and interests. I would like to go to Korea and be there a "beauty master" because it's a well paid job especially in Korea. Work there for about five or 8 years and move out to New York. And there my life will be changed. I will have my own business. For example, I will have my own designer clothes. And then after ten years, I will be interested in calm life in small village in England with my family. So you do want to ask me, why do I want to live in several places during my life? I'll answer. Because I don't want to sit in one place for many years and wondering what if had an interesting life. I would like to spend my life knowing that this day will be more interesting than yesterday. And not regret about it in the future. So I think it is important to spend your life like you want no matter if you worried about it because then you will regret.

My opinion is that this a positive development, as sometimes people can not choose their job or career from the first time. It is really important the job to be liked by the person who makes it. If human do not like his work, he won't do it correctly and enjoy it every time. Also, it has a big impact on a quality of working, as if people can only think about how soon they will be at home, work will not be done good.

When teenagers have to choose the university or the college for their further studies, they actually do not really think about their future job and the position in society.

Nowadays, everybody wants to have a job which will give him lots of money and where he could find new people to get acquainted with. But however, we need to remember that if man changes his place of work or his job at all more than three or four times, it means that he simply did not want to work hard and believes that 'easy' money will come to him without any efforts.

According to my thoughts, I can make a conclusion that it is not bad if man can not find his job from the first time. We all need to get more knowledge about jobs and to have time to decide what to work at all to achieve his goals, so he decide to find a new job, it is not right.

Today people have a lot of options for their careers. There are lots of different types of jobs and places to live. Some people can find their dream job very fast and there until the last day. But the other amount of people can't find their place in our world very fast.

Those people, who can't find their dream job, try themselves in different ways. It happens often, when people can find a job, which they like, but it doesn't give them enough money to build their life. Or there are people, who don't enjoy their job at all, but it gives them a plenty of money.

I think that it is really good to try yourself in different ways to improve yourself. Usually, common people start their career, working on a badly-paid job. Then they find a better place to work, which has a better salary and then people start building their own life. People buy houses or flats, cars, find their couples and even create families. Starting from that moment, when everything is going well, people start searching for their dream job, which they will enjoy very much and if their working experience is wide, they can even find a well-paid job.

While living their lives, people gain experience from trying themselves in different ways. That's what they meet new people and gain new knowledge. That's what makes our lives a bit more colourfull!

An increasing number of people today frequently change their careers and places of residence several times during their lives. Is this a positive development?

In my opinion, it isn't a positive development for countries and careers people leave because it means that they don't like their lives in particular country or they don't like their job, that they want to change their lives and make their lives better than they have now. But it's also good for countries and jobs which people choose because they can offer more than previous jobs or countries.

On the other hand, I don't think this is so good for peoples because, changing their careers or places of residence, they change their way of living and lives at all. People can feel stressed and nervous. Changing places of residence, they move to the another place where there aren't their friends, relatives and so on. Changing their careers, they change the place work, people who work with this you also change.

So for particular countries and jobs it's good for others - not. Some people feel normal, changing their lives, some feel stressed and sad about it. Finally, it depends on the situation and consequences of changing place of residence and career. In one way it's a positive development, in another - not.
