Nowadays some parents prefer teaching their children themselves at home to sending them to schools. <sup>Many</sup> People do not think it is a good way of studying because of some reasons. These reasons are making friends and ~~not~~ having a parent as a teacher. However, a home education can help to study only the required subjects.

Firstly, having a parent as a teacher doesn't give the ~~strict~~ <sup>strict</sup> impression on the child because he or she does not get a parent as a teacher in a serious way. Besides most parents did not get a teacher education, so they might not know many things <sup>about educational process</sup>.

Secondly, <sup>another</sup> one more disadvantage of home studying is that children don't have an opportunity to make a lot of friends as they can do it at school. Therefore they are not able to learn how to communicate with each other. That is why they will probably have some problems with communication in the future.

On the other hand, studying at home can reduce the number of useless subjects for the child, so he or she will pay more attention to the subjects he or she needs the most. <sup>of all</sup>

To sum up everyone should choose the way of education which is more suitable for him/her but most people ~~would~~ would prefer the traditional way of studying.

Writing.

"Some parents teach their children at home rather than sending them to school. Is this a good or a bad thing for the children?"

Nowadays, more and more parents make a decision to teach their kids at home. They become children's teachers and help them with studying. Nevertheless, despite on growing statistic of popularity of such type of education, it has both disadvantages and advantages. But personally, I think that such educational system is a bad decision for the child's future.

On the one hand, having a parent as your teacher is not only a very complicated task, but not always comfortable too. Parents can not always explain properly things to you and give you a full amount of requiring knowledge. Also, they often can be more strict which can affect on the child. Secondly, a child sitting at home biggest part of the day ~~cannot~~ make friends and simply talk to other different people with different types of behavior. It will cause lots of psychological problems with communication in future.

On the other hand, despite all these negative aspects, at home a child would never be bullied by his classmates and some terrible school teachers. It will save his mental health and a kid will not get traumatized.

To sum up, teaching at home can be the reason of lots of different problems in the future life. That's why, to get good education with full amount of knowledge, to learn how to communicate with people and be an adult, person children need to go to school.

~~There are many children who are taught at~~

Some parents make decision to teach their children at home instead of sending them to school. Is it a good idea to study at home? There are some advantages and disadvantages, that I'd like to mention.

Having a parent as a teacher is ~~an~~ comfortable for kids with special needs and health problems. It may help ~~the~~ avoid bullying at school. Parents focus on you and your future plans, that can help to make your own timetable. On the other hand, parent don't have special education and knowledge. Their way of teaching might be wrong and cause some difficulties in understanding the program. ~~Parents are always~~ Sometimes parents are not strict enough to make their children study.

~~We~~ <sup>Superior</sup> we should not forget about people around us. Making friends for children, who study at home, may be complicated. They don't have local jokes and memories about school, that they will always laugh about. Looking on this situation from another point of view, nobody will disturb children during the process.

School program is made for average students, but there are some ~~stark~~ children, whose IQ is higher than other kids' ones. This kind of children find school too easy to study at, that's why they study at home, where they learn ~~university~~ <sup>program of university</sup> program to take part in different ~~competitions~~ <sup>olympiads</sup> olympiads.

In conclusion I'd like to add, that everyone makes his or her own decisions and, if it is comfortable for children to study at home, that is great. They have found their own way of getting knowledge.
