Should students have a long summer holiday or should terms be longer? People argue about this question a lot, and there are lots of views on that subject. In my opinion, terms should be longer than they are now.

Many students would disagree with me, obviously, since ~~many~~ most of them wouldn't like to give up a minute of their precious leisure time in summer. Based on my experience though, three months is just too much.

First of all, ~~extending~~ increasing the length of terms would make a big favour towards education quality. The reason being that teachers generally can't fit the year's education program plan in 9 months (not even counting holidays between semesters!) that schools give them. That causes teachers to intensify rates they give the study material in, which leads to students being burnt out very quickly! Obviously enough, an exhausted student is not much of a good learner. So my point is that we should give teachers an extra time to give material in at a reasonable rate.

Secondly, I think that 3 months is too much even for pupils themselves! From my experience, you spend about a month of summer holidays doing nothing but procrastinating anyway, and only two months are spent on true leisure activities, like going out with friends, spending travelling, visiting your family grandparents and such. So, why not give that extra month to something truly useful?

But what about the teachers? Would they like to work a bit a month longer? Most of the teachers I've talked to were positive about the idea of longer terms, because longer terms mean less stress for both them and their students for reasons I have already mentioned.

To sum it up, in my opinion summer holidays definitely need to be shortened. It would do a big favour towards education and wouldn't really affect the amount of leisure activities and rest that students have would usually get.

Should students have a long summer holiday or should terms be longer?

In our country students have three months of summer holidays. They're meant as the longest holidays in the world. ^{the} Majority of students like them and don't want to change anything. But some people think that terms should be longer and it would have more advantages.

In my opinion summer holidays should be shorter at least for a month. That's way schools would make less lessons every day and students wouldn't be so tired after classes. Also it's better for teachers: they wouldn't have need to rush to prepare children to the exams. And it would be more convenient for students as well. They would have more time to get better marks and make their results better. And for eleventh and ninth grades ~~it's~~ longer terms means they would have more time to prepare ~~to the~~ the exams and have less stress.

But on the other hand children would have less holidays. But I see some advantages in it. At least they wouldn't forget too much material they have learned. And simply they would spend their holidays more intelligent.

At the end I would like to state that many people may say I'm wrong and longer holidays are better. But, it's my opinion and I think if students ~~wouldn't be~~ ^{were} so stressed during the school year, They wouldn't need 3 months of holidays.

Should students have a long summer holiday or should terms be longer? This is a really interesting question for our system of education. So I want to get into this theme.

Certainly, the long terms are better for learning. It does not give our brains to chill and students ~~we~~ have to work everyday. At the time of summer holiday we don't have to learn something or write tests. We don't use our knowledges and them ~~became~~ forgotten.

But I guess there is a disadvantage of long terms and long time of learning and working everyday. Some students can "burnt out" and lost their interest in even favourite subjects. That is how it was with me last year.

Although I think if student truly get interest in something he ~~she~~ will ~~learn~~ learn and practice still on summer holidays. He ~~she~~ has more time to work in his ~~her~~ special way. For example, future engineers can try to write codes by themselves not in a case their teacher want, future artists can draw and practice more making ~~making~~ something they can't ~~do~~ at school time.

And a long summer holidays and a long terms have their own advantages and disadvantages. And I think we should balance them in a way they are balance now. I think we don't have to change something.

Holidays are such an events, that everybody is waiting for. As it is always about ~~happiness~~ happiness, vibrant colours and stuff like that. So, that is why, I'm going to give a talk about summer holidays. From my point of view, every student will ~~sto~~ choose exactly this holiday, because, first of all summer holidays are the longest holidays in a whole year. You can relax from all this school ~~<routine>~~ at least for 3 months. Second of all, summer is that time when, not in every country, but still, it is very warm and ~~to~~ nice weather. You can be free all the time, ~~with~~ go for a walk with your friends ~~and etc.~~ and you don't need to think about your ~~hom~~ school homework, some things that you should do or prefer for the next studying day.

When it is summer holidays, you ^{also} have more opportunities to develop yourself, as you have free time. You can travel more and have a lot of new meetings.

Personally, I prefer winter holidays more, than summer. Because of it's atmosphere and ~~New Year~~ Christmas mood. To my mind these are the main holidays for everybody. Because they mean a lot. ~~Winter holidays~~ For example, winter holidays mean, that it is a new year, ~~a new life. This magic and fantastic~~. In winter ~~summer~~ holidays, even before them, you can already feel this magic inside you. ~~[That is why I really like winter season. Summer is also a major season in the year. As I said earlier, in this holiday you can afford yourself many things, and live your life without any problems, that usually happen at school.]~~

To sum up, I would like to say that all holidays are fascinating by their own way. And it's only your choice what to choose.
